then saw the frantic folly in which they indulged. The result is known, and the record of suicide, impoverishment, abject linga, and distress is long and lamentable.

Thames-Street Industries, by Percy Russell. This Illustrated Pamphlet on Perfumery, published at 6d., may be had gratis from a Chemist or dealer in perfumery in the West or John Gennell and Co., London.—[Advt.]—This is not. The Earl of Winchester, having agreed to subscribe to the funds of a Horticultural Society in Northampton, replied:—I think that the town of Northampton, have been fortunate enough to secure the services of Mr. Lebonchere's eloquence and the fruits of Mr. Bradlaugh's philosophy, stands in need of any other horticultural exhibition.
